Agriculture is the foundation of human civilization. It is how we feed ourselves, and it has shaped our cultures and societies for thousands of years. But today, our food system is in crisis. Climate change, population growth, and industrialization are putting unprecedented stress on our ability to produce food, and the way we farm is having a devastating impact on the environment.

In The Harvest of Century, Pulitzer Prize-winning author Dan Charles tells the story of how we have fed ourselves for centuries and explores the challenges we face in the 21st century. Drawing on a wealth of historical research and interviews with farmers, scientists, and policymakers, Charles traces the evolution of our food system from its humble beginnings to its current state of crisis.

The Harvest of Century is a sweeping and ambitious work that offers a unique perspective on one of the most important issues of our time. It is a must-read for anyone who cares about food, farming, and the future of our planet.
